FWJ1936

A nod to the year the zipper met the hoodie — and history was made. The FWJ1936 is inspired by the first zippered sweatshirts, which debuted in 1936 at the Halle Brothers Department Store in Cleveland. With help from the Talon Company's game-changing zipper innovation, everyday apparel leveled up. This modern take honors that legacy with a soft, substantial loopback terry, a vintage-inspired metal zipper, and subtle heritage details. Whether you're layering up or zipping down, this hoodie proves the classics never quit.

Textile waste is the start, not the end, for Fairweather Johnson. We collect post-industrial and post-consumer waste, sort it by color, chop it into pieces, and blend it to create recycled yarn without dyeing or excessive water use. The yarn is then knitted into the fabrics in our apparel collection. Fairweather Johnson offers a sustainable, closed-loop production solution.
